

Men of iron: A history of the iron industry of South-Central Pennsylvania, 1785-1950

The iron industry of Bedford, Huntingdon and Blair Counties in Pennsylvania had its beginnings in 1800 and lasted until the final blast furnace closed in 1943. This book described the pioneer ironmasters, furnaces and forges and other facilities, especially those located along the East Broad Top and Huntingdon & Broad Top Railroads. Softcover, self-published book by one of the region's leading historians.
